Ohio Fuel Gas will Not Offer Proposed Schedule To City Council

INTEREST IS HIGH

Ashville Council Refuses To do Business Monday

Action of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. on its new contract which will go into effect here on March 27 when the present contract expires is a matter for wide conjecture in the face of developments in the past few days.

A statement was issued by company officials Tuesday that the proposed new rates offered to city council unofficially several weeks ago will not be offered as an ordinance. It is now thought that the proposed schedule offered by the gas company unofficially to council and which was published was more or less a feeler in which the gas company could learn the attitude of the city as well as its citizens on the matter. Much opposition to the proposed rates has been heard during the past few weeks and this may have influenced the gas company to change its proposed rate schedule.

SUBJECT DISCUSSED

This development was learned at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday evening in which the matter of the gas question was discussed for a short time. No ordinance has yet been offered to city council on the gas rate which must be set by March 27 therefore nothing can be done officially by the council.

One member of council at the Chamber of Commerce meeting stated that he, like everyone else, is for as low a rate as can possibly be obtained. An honest effort was promised the Chamber of Commerce to obtain a low rate if possible.

With this development before the council, another announcement was made Tuesday evening which created considerable interest. Mayor S. D. Fridley of Ashville, with George A. Hook, a well-known business man of that village, attended the meeting with Mr. Fridley taking part in the discussion.

ASHVILLE'S ACTION

He told the council what action the gas company took at a meeting in Ashville with the village council Monday evening. Ashville's rate is the same as Circleville's at the present time and the rate which the gas company proposed to that council in the form of an ordinance was the same as unofficially announced here. The Ashville council several weeks ago flatly refused to even consider the new proposed rate.

THINK HOOVER TO SIGN BILL

Growing Tide of National Sentiment Is In Favor of Veterans Bonus Payment

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—The growing tide of national sentiment in favor of the $700,000,000 soldiers' bonus "loan" bill today led administration leaders to hope President Hoover will sign after congress enacts the measure into law.

In the face of persistent rumors that Mr. Hoover will veto the bill, it was learned his party leaders—almost without exception—are urging him to accept it. They were aided by a belief among many business leaders that the enactment of the measure would not disturb present business conditions and would aid the situation in the future by removing a perplexing economic question from the field of politics.

"I have found New York banking commercial interests are not alarmed by this bill," said one outstanding administration leader.

Defense Ready In Bank Trial

Outcome of Trial Depends on Mal Daugherty's Ability to Explain Numerous Bank Transactions, Is Belief; State Uses Weighty Testimony in Tuesday's Session of Court.

WASHINGTON, C. H. O. Feb. 18.—Before a Fayette-co jury today legal forces of Mal S. Daugherty, former president of the ill-fated Ohio State Bank are today marshalling a defense which they hope will discount the heavy blasts of evidence introduced yesterday by the state to convict Daugherty of fraud.

Sensing indications that the prosecution might rest its case today, although this is a matter of conjecture, the defense has filed a precipe for eight witnesses in addition to Daugherty.

TO GO ON STAND

The Washington, C. H. banker has announced he will take the witness stand and "explain transactions" which the state is holding up to the jury for conviction.

He must prove regularity of a mass of bank notes, canceled checks, deposit slips, ledger sheets and the like which Special Prosecutor Louis Schneider and Fayette-co Prosecutor Norman L. McLean produced for jury inspection in Tuesday's proceedings.

EVIDENCE STRONG

Evidence presented by the state Tuesday was recognized as the weightiest that has yet been offered to prove one of the 16 indictments on which the ex-bank president is being tried.

Cecil L. Hall, accounting expert who investigated the Ohio State Bank after the blinds were drawn, testified the books of the bank as of Oct. 1, 1928, showed Daugherty's indebtedness to the bank was $41,486.30 directly, and $2,500 as an endorser.

On that same date, the capital stock of the bank was $200,000 and the surplus fund, $12,500. Under the law, the prosecutor brought out, loans to any one person cannot exceed 20 per cent of the bank's capital and surplus.

This automatically fixed the limit for the Ohio State Bank on that date as $42,450.

UP TO DAUGHERTY

The books further revealed, as studied by Hall, that D. L. Thompson, former high school principal of Washington, C. H., owed the bank $32,999.44 and that he had listed as collateral, stock of the Little Rapids Pulp & Paper Co., which was set down in value as $14,873.

On the ability of Daugherty's defense to explain these blasts of evidence, outcome of the trial hinges to a great extent.

BUS DRIVER TO APPEAR IN COURT

A bus driver for the Greyhound lines, who was taken into custody by Officer McManamy about 6 p. m. Monday on a charge of double-parking on W. Main-st, failed to appear for hearing before Mayor B. T. Hedges at 11:30 a. m. as scheduled.

The Greyhound bus stops every day at its Circleville terminal, the Merrie Manor Restaurant, and always has to double park, because of its great size and length. It hinders traffic on W. Main-st.

MANY ATTEND $ DAY HERE

Merchants everywhere in the city were proclaiming today's Dollar Day as the best yet. Early Wednesday many persons from throughout the county were parking their automobiles in advantageous places on the city's streets and early this afternoon most of these cars were still in their places. Several store managers Tuesday evening reported they were forced to refuse numerous persons' requests to buy or to have articles marked for Dollar Day put away until today. These requests were naturally refused.

The last Dollar Day the city had was marked by a heavy downpour of rain, in fact the first one for quite a time. Early today the skies looked like they would burst open any minute to toss a torrent of water upon the shoppers but the rainfall did not come.

SHRINER IS C. C. SPEAKER

Scout Executive States Value of Boy Scout Work Through Nation.

C. E. Shriner, scout executive of the central Ohio area council with headquarters in Columbus, addressed the Chamber of Commerse Tuesday evening on the value of a scout to his community. Shriner termed this question as one of the most vital before parents and citizens and that it deserves all the interest and consideration possible.

He told of the beginning of scouting 21 years ago and of the gradual growth until the present great organization. In explaining the value of the movement he went back to the boys, now men in their early 30's who joined the movement at its inauguration. He said that a check of those who belonged to the first troops shows the value of scouting for those men have practically all proven assets to their communities.

Mr. Shriner lamented the fact that seven million boys in the nation are not scouts while only one million do belong to the organization Coming nearer home he said there are now 3,000 scouts in the central Ohio area of eight counties while there are 5,000 more boys who could be members.

The scout executive explained the problems his office is confronted by and the heavy work the members of his staff are forced to do. His talk was very interesting to members of the Chamber of Commerce, all of whom are interested in the welfare of our boys.

Mr. Shriner was introduced by Fred C. Clark.

SPANISH KING BRAVES FOES, NAMES AIDES

Alfonso Proves Himself Strongest Politician of All in His Action

SELECTS ROYALISTS

Calls on All Others First, But They Fail

MADRID, Feb. 18.—Determined to continue his reign as absolute monarch of Spain, King Alfonso XIII, today defied his implacable foes and placed the government of his country in the hands of Royalist group headed by Admiral Juan Bautista Aznar as premier.

Admiral Aznar's cabinet took over the reins of government from the cabinet of General D'Amaso Berenguer this afternoon, after taking the oath of allegiance to the King at the Royal Palace shortly after noon.

HALTS STRIFE

Thus ended, at least for the time being, the period of political uncertainty which has existed in Spain since last Saturday when General Berenguer resigned, and which led to reports of possible revolutionary movements, another military dictatorship and even abdication by the King.

In solving the crisis as he did, King Alfonso once again proved himself the most astute politician of them all.

Before calling upon his friends and supporters to form a government, he gave his enemies, constitutionalists, republicans and socialists, every opportunity to get together and take charge of the government.

OTHERS FIRST

First Jose Sancheuz Guerra failed. Then Melquiades Alvarez, more liberal even than Guerra and still more opposed to the monarchy declined to accept the task.

Having proved that the political elements opposed to him were unable to agree and combine against him, the King had also proved that without the monarch the political situation in Spain would undoubtedly be more chaotic than ever.

905 BILLS GO BEFORE STATE SENATE, HOUSE

Ohio Legislatures Await Action on Proposal after Hectic Tuesday

GILLEN SIGNS 16

Tax Predominates in List Of Measures Proposed

COLUMBUS, O. Feb. 18.—Exhausted from its frantic haste yesterday to get under the wire with legislative proposals of its constituents, a drooping general assembly drew a long breath today and awaited consideration of 905 different bills, each of which promises a prompt cure for one or more of Ohio's various ailments.

Continuing its eleventh-hour rush without regard for a charge by one of its own number that "there has been too much nuisance legislation," the assembly yesterday stuffed the hoppers with 340 new measures — an all-time high record for the last day of regular introduction of bills.

Senator Earl R. Lewis of St. Clairsville, the Republican floor leader, interrupted the presentation of bills in the senate to deliver an address in which he declared that "We ought to introduce only bills which have acquired sanction from an aroused public opinion."

ADD NEW BILLS

Upon completion of his talk, however, the senate submitted more than 50 new bills before it adjourned.

The house of representatives returned for its first extra night meeting of the session and boosted its total of new bills for the day to 232.

Almost every legislator had at least one bill, several had five or six, and one man—Roy J. Gillen (R), blind senator from Wellston—had 16, increasing his total for the session to 49.

Bills submitted were of widely varying character, but taxation measures were numerically predominant.

TAX PREDOMINATES

The appearance of bills to provide revenue through licenses for osteopaths, chiropractors, architects, elevator inspectors, motorists and others finally resulted in the introduction of a bogus measure by Senator William A. Greenlund (D) of Cleveland. It was a take-off on other licensing bills and provided for a licensing of all farmers.

Only graduates of agricultural colleges, or persons recommended by two dirt farmers, could be eligible for a farmer's license under his proposal. Violators of provisions of the license would be sentenced to 90 days of hard labor at the London Prison Farm.

A half-mill tax levy on real estate for five years to produce $35,

DO YOU KNOW

Thomas Densmore Krinn?

T. D. has been 'round Circleville
'Bout fifty years, from talk.
So when he first showed up 'round here
T. D. could scarcely walk.
I think he came from Gibsonville.
Right here, so long he's 'set'
I'm sure if quizzed, T. D. would say,
"By Gosh, I've plumb forgot!"

'Bout five feet six, I think he hits.
With black, but graying hair.
As even tempered chap, I'll bet
As you'll find anywhere.
At office, county auditor,
He is chief deputy.
He's served as auditor,
Word runs along to me.

He once sold papers on the street,
The sheet which you now read.
And T. D.'s climb to things worth while
Was done with vim and speed.
He likes his work. Likes to play bridge.
And does both real nice.
And wants his soup (beef, consomme)
Served with a chunk of ice!

MANY ATTEND $ DAY HERE

Merchants everywhere in the city were proclaiming today's Dollar Day as the best yet. Early Wednesday many persons from throughout the county were parking their automobiles in advantageous places on the city's streets and early this afternoon most of these cars were still in their places. Several store managers Tuesday evening reported they were forced to refuse numerous persons' requests to buy or to have articles marked for Dollar Day put away until today. These requests were naturally refused.

The last Dollar Day the city had was marked by a heavy downpour of rain, in fact the first one for quite a time. Early today the skies looked like they would burst open any minute to toss a torrent of water upon the shoppers but the rainfall did not come.

SHRINER IS C. C. SPEAKER

Scout Executive States Value of Boy Scout Work Through Nation.

C. E. Shriner, scout executive of the central Ohio area council with headquarters in Columbus, addressed the Chamber of Commerse Tuesday evening on the value of a scout to his community. Shriner termed this question as one of the most vital before parents and citizens and that it deserves all the interest and consideration possible.

He told of the beginning of scouting 21 years ago and of the gradual growth until the present great organization. In explaining the value of the movement he went back to the boys, now men in their early 30's who joined the movement at its inauguration. He said that a check of those who belonged to the first troops shows the value of scouting for those men have practically all proven assets to their communities.

Mr. Shriner lamented the fact that seven million boys in the nation are not scouts while only one million do belong to the organization. Coming nearer home he said there are now 3,000 scouts in the central Ohio area of eight counties while there are 5,000 more boys who could be members.

The scout executive explained the problems his office is confronted by and the heavy work the members of his staff are forced to do. His talk was very interesting to members of the Chamber of Commerce, all of whom are interested in the welfare of our boys.

Mr. Shriner was introduced by Fred C. Clark.

SPANISH KING BRAVES FOES, NAMES AIDES

Alfonso Proves Himself Strongest Politician of All in His Action

SELECTS ROYALISTS

Calls on All Others First, But They Fail

MADRID, Feb. 18.—Determined to continue his reign as absolute monarch of Spain, King Alfonso XIII, today defied his implacable foes and placed the government of his country in the hands of Royalist group headed by Admiral Juan Bautista Aznar as premier.

Admiral Aznar's cabinet took over the reins of government from the cabinet of General D'Amaso Berenguer this afternoon, after taking the oath of allegiance to the King at the Royal Palace shortly after noon.

HALTS STRIFE

Thus ended, at least for the time being, the period of political uncertainty which has existed in Spain since last Saturday when General Berenguer resigned, and which led to reports of possible revolutionary movements, another military dictatorship and even abdication by the King.

In solving the crisis as he did, King Alfonso once again proved himself the most astute politician of them all.

Before calling upon his friends and supporters to form a government, he gave his enemies, constitutionalists, republicans and socialists, every opportunity to get together and take charge of the government.

OTHERS FIRST

First Jose Sancheuz Guerra failed. Then Melquiades Alvarez, more liberal even than Guerra and still more opposed to the monarchy declined to accept the task.

Having proved that the political elements opposed to him were unable to agree and combine against him, the King had also proved that without the monarch the political situation in Spain would undoubtedly be more chaotic than ever.

905 BILLS GO BEFORE STATE SENATE, HOUSE

GILLEN SIGNS 16

Tax Predominates in List Of Measures Proposed

COLUMBUS, O. Feb. 18.—Exhausted from its frantic haste yesterday to get under the wire with legislative proposals of its constituents, a drooping general assembly drew a long breath today and awaited consideration of 905 different bills, each of which promises a prompt cure for one or more of Ohio's various ailments.

Continuing its eleventh-hour rush without regard for a charge by one of its own number that "there has been too much nuisance legislation," the assembly yesterday stuffed the hoppers with 340 new measures — an all-time high record for the last day of regular introduction of bills.

Senator Earl R. Lewis of St. Clairsville, the Republican floor leader, interrupted the presentation of bills in the senate to deliver an address in which he declared that "We ought to introduce only bills which have acquired sanctity from an aroused public opinion."

ADD NEW BILLS

Upon completion of his talk, however, the senate submitted more than 50 new bills before it adjourned.

The house of representatives returned for its first extra night meeting of the session and boosted its total of new bills for the day to 232.

Almost every legislator had at least one bill, several had five or six, and one man—Roy J. Gillen (R), blind senator from Wellston—had 16, increasing his total for the session to 49.

Bills submitted were of widely varying character, but taxation measures were numerically predominant.

TAX PREDOMINATES

The appearance of bills to provide revenue through licenses for osteopaths, chiropractors, architects, elevator inspectors, motorists and others finally resulted in the introduction of a bogus measure by Senator William A. Greenland (D) of Cleveland. It was a take-off on other licensing bills and provided for a licensing of all farmers.

Only graduates of agricultural colleges, or persons recommended by two dirt farmers, could be eligible for a farmer's license under his proposal. Violators of provisions of the license would be sentenced to 90 days of hard labor at the London Prison Farm.

BROOKHART RAPS OHIO WETS IN REFUSING SPEAKING OFFER

COLUMBUS, O.—If there is something more than a thirst--something sinister--behind attempts to repeal the eighteenth amendment, as United States Senator Smith W. Brookhart (R) of Iowa said in a letter received here yesterday, Ohio wets were unwilling to admit it today.

On receipt of an invitation to speak at a legislative committee meeting here when a referendum proposal is to be discussed Wednesday night, Senator Brookhart replied that wets have two reasons for advocating repeal:

"1. They want to attract the attention of the country away from the present economic conditions which the financial rule of our country has created.

"2. They want to tax intoxicating liquor, especially beer, to reduce their own taxes, which they must now pay the federal government."

Senator L. L. Marshall (R) of Cleveland, author of a joint resolution asking Congress to call a constitutional convention to consider amendments, was amazed at the answer.

"I'd like to have him at the meeting here, I'd like to argue against anyone willing to put up such an argument," Marshall said.

"Have you received acceptances from any other celebrities you invited," Marshall was asked.

"No, but if Brookhart comes, we don't need anyone else,' he replied. Brookhart won't come, however. He is opposed to the idea of holding a convention, other amendments are more important than prohibition, and the constitutional convention has never represented the voice of the people and never will anyway, he said in his letter.

"If conventions were called in the states, these sinister wet forces would resort to every device of corruption and bribery known to control these conventions, regardless of the will of the people," his letter said.

Approval of the amendment and referendum suggestion reached Marshall simultaneously from Joseph R. Nutt, Cleveland, national treasurer of the Republican party.

"Your plan takes the liquor question out of politics and gives all the people a chance to express themselves," he wrote.

Declining Marshall's invitation, Henry W. Anderson, who wrote an individual minority report in the Wickersham committee statement, answered that "We want our report after much study and that speakes for itself.'

POLICE SMASH NARCOTIC RING

Agents Co-operate in Canada and United States to Break Internationalists.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Investigation of what authorities say is an international organization of narcotic smugglers went ahead today with secret agents of the United States and Canada co-operating in the hunt for fresh information.

What action, if any, will be taken as a result of raids conducted at two exclusive northside hotels by federal men remained a question today. In the course of the raids two persons of international prominence were taken in custody for questioning.

Federal men first raided the suite of W. Perkins Bull, K. C. (King's Counselor) of London and Toronto, arresting Bull. He was held for questioning until an early hour Saturday morning. Bull, a rich landowner having estates in England, Canada and Cuba, is said to be an intimate friend of King George of England.

Next the raiders appeared at the apartment of Mrs. Maybelle Horlick Sidley, heiress to the fortune of William H. Horlick, Racine, Wis., manufacturer. She likewise was taken in custody and questioned along with Bull.

FILM FUMES BURN TWENTY

CINCINNATI, O.—A scene recalling the disastrous Cleveland clinic tragedy of May 15, 1929 when 125 persons fell victims to fumes from burning films was enacted here today when fire followed an explosion in the plant of the Pick Pen Company.

More than a dozen persons were overcome by poisonous fumes from blazing celluloid. They were rushed to hospitals. Most of the victims were firemen.

Members of the Salvage corps and girls employed by the company emerged from the burning complaining of feeling dizzy. Within a few minutes they collapsed on the sidewalk.

That no deaths resulted were due to the fact that the life-saving squad used respirators on many stricken persons enroute to hospitals. None of the victims was said to be in a serious condition

Nine members of the salvage corps, including Captain Edward Aders was taken to the Good Samaritan Hospital. Two firemen and six girls employed by the pen company was rushed to City Hospital.

Witnesses said that several of the victims of the fumes walked several blocks from the scene of the fire before collapsing. Those for whom respirators were not available were revived with aromatic spirits of ammonia.

STATE SENATE PROBING ETHICS PRACTICED BY OHIO ATTORNEYS

COLUMBUS, O.—Octopus-like, the state senate investigation of questionable ethics of attorneys practicing before the state industrial commission spread to Toledo, Akron, Steubenville, Dayton, Martins Ferry, Glouster, Marysville and other Ohio cities today.

Holding its first meeting, the senate committee investigating the situation, received charges that a Columbus firm of attorneys had attempted to re-open old claims, solicited claim cases when injured persons had no thought of applying for compensation and tried to "buy" medical testimony.

Charges that a group of attorneys approached him and offered a percentage of the compensation if he would be willing to supply the medical proof necessary were made by Dr. W. R. Allison of Belmontco, in a letter submitted to the investigating committee by George J. Barrett of Steubenville.

Letters advising Ross Hedges, industrial relations department official, of the attempts of the same attorney to revive old claims in an effort to get more compensation were also read to the committee. The letters were received, it was stated, from Barrett, Fred Morris of Martins Ferry; Harry P. Wood of Toledo, and other heads of branch offices.

One letter pointed out that in the death of Dominic Spanish at Marysville, Mrs. Spanish had no idea of trying to get compensation.

The same group of attorneys attemped to reach an agreement with J. E. McGonagle, 761 Wall -st. Akron, it was asserted.

At Glouster, the committee was informed, the attorneys demanded 30 per cent of what had already been received and 50 per cent of anything addisional received for reviving old claims, it was alleged.

A Cleveland woman was asked $9.75 for the reopening of a case, and when she replied that she did not have the money, attorneys agreed to take $4.75, which was all she could get, another letter showed.

The practice to which the committee is objecting is probably not illegal but is as unethical as ambulance chasing, Hedges declared at the opening of the hearing.

Members of the senate committee investigating the industrial relations committee are Charles J. Anderson (R) of Shelby, Walter G. Nickels (R) of New Philadelphia, Louis J. Eberle (D) of Nelsonville and William Dunipace (D) of Bowling Green.

WASHINGTON—The Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals voiced "distress and resentment" today over the "increased consumption of cigarettes by young girls" and proposed "a change in the prohibition laws to require the doctoring of fruit juices to prevent fermentation.'

The board, headed by Dr. Clarence True Wilson, said "smoking is a matter of racial health and flamboyant advertising tells the mothers of tomorrow that cigarettes will keep them slender"

Concerning the grape concentrate, the board stated: "Grape growers of California will eventually come upon diaster if they expect the American people ... content to see them in the ... ment of a monopoly founded ... a violation to the United ... constitution."

Teams Working for Tournament

A hush is found through Pickaway-co's rural districts this week and only one reason can be found to explain it. The county basketball tournament begins Friday at C. A. C. gymnasium here and competition is expected to be so hot that to pick a winner at this stage of affairs would be folly of the first degree.

There is not a team in the county that is certain to win the highly-desired gonfalon which denotes supremacy in the greatest of games, according to county sports, basketball. There are only a few teams in the county which do not have a good chance to cop the title. These may be the teams to upset the dope and toss a title contender into the discard by a sudden flash of form.

Another team pushed itself into the spotlight last week by losing to New Holland's team by only two points, and that is no other team than Scioto-twp, winners of the boys' meet last year. Starting slowly with not a single regular back from the 1929-30 team, the Commercial Point lads played New Holland nearly to a standstill but lost the contest. Scioto's sudden leap into the eye of the fans makes five teams one of which should win the championship; besides Scioto they are Pickaway, New Holland, Saltcreek, and Walnut. Anything though may happen, any of these teams might be bumped off in the first round, for is that not the way these county tournaments usually run?

In the girls' side of the annual fiasco fans are again picking Ashville, last year's champs, and Walnut, runners-up, to fight it out in the finals. Other teams may come through to defeat either of these, especially Scioto, but most fans are naming Ashville and Walnut to play the finals. Time will tell.

The tournament will start at 7 p. m. on Friday and on Saturday will get under way at 9 a. m. The teams come back for the next Thursday and play Friday and Saturday evening when the finals will be played.

Hebron Outfit Is Strong One

If there is anyone who thinks the C. A. C. has picked off an easy opponent for tomorrow evening at the local gym, they have another guess coming, for this Hebron Balthis Gasser outfit is about the toughest semi-pro team in central Ohio. Fans in this locality know that a team that has Nolan Swackhammer, Freddie Lowe, Karl Bonifield, Walter Harrop and Hal Leslie in its lineup is bound to be tough.

This array of players under the New Lexington banner defeated the club here several weeks ago after taking a drubbing at New Lexington. The comparative scores were nearly the same and it is expected another great contest will be seen Thursday.

Art Steele, who was injured by a playful Ohio University lad last week when pushed into the bleachers, is ready to go for the Club although his knees are still bruised where he connected with the floor.

Jimmy Balthis is bringing his team here with the expectation of winning and nothing short of victory will satisfy him. This man is used to copping court contests for his team has been runner-up in the State Journal tourney for three straight years and is the only team to win permanent possession of the Journal's runner-up cup.

A preliminary has been arranged which will see the Gordon Tires and the Darbyville All-Stars in action. This game will begin at 7:30. Price of admission for these two games is 25 and 15 cents.

FARM MACHINERY WILL BE SHOWN

Discussion of proper adjustments and operation of the corn planter binder, knotter-head troubles and adjusting breaking plows to overcome side-draft are features of the program. R. D. Barden of Ohio State University will assist H. S. Lewis, county agent in conducting the program.

The clinic is free and every farmer is welcome and urgently invited to attend. Free motion pictures depicting the steps in the invention of the grain reaper will be a special feature.

EINSTEIN BRANDS SCIENCE AS ADDING TO HORRORS OF WAR

PASADENA, Cal. — Professor Albert Einstein, the world's foremost scientist, declared today that science, multiplied the horrors of war, and failed in peace time to make people happy.

"It is because we have not yet learned to make possible sensible use of science," the German savant told the student assembly of California Institute of Technology.

"My dear young friends, I am glad to see you before me, a flourishing band of young people who have chosen applied science as a profession," the German scientist said.

"I could sing a hymn of praise with the refrain of the splendid progress in applied science that we have already made, and the enormous further progress that you will bring about.

"We are indeed in the era and also in the native land of applied science.

"But it lies far from my thought to speak in this way.

"Much more I am reminded in this connection of the young man who had married a not very attractive wife and was asked whether or not he was happy.

"He answered thus: 'If I wished to speak the truth, then I would have to lie.' So it is also with me.

"Just consider a quite uncivilized Indian whether his experience is less rich in happiness than the average civilized man.

"I hardly think so. There lies a deep meaning in the fact that the children of all civilized countries are so fond of playing Indian.

"Why does this magnificence of applied science which saves work and makes life easier, bring us so little happiness?

"The simple answer is: because we have not yet learned to make a sensible use of it.

"In war it serves that we may poison and multilate each other.

"In peace it has made our lives hurried and uncertain instead of freeing us, in a great measure, from spiritually exacting labor; it has made men into the slaves of machinery, who for the most part complete their monotonous long day's work with disgust and must continually tremble for their poor rations.

"You will be thinking that the old man sings an ugly song.

"I do it, however, with a good purpose, in order to point out a consequence.

"It is not enough that you should understand about applied science in order that your work may increase man's blessings.

"Concern for the man himself and his fate must always form the chief interest of all technical endeavors; concern for the great unsolved problem of the organization of labor and the distribution of goods in order that the creation of our minds shall be a blessing and not a curse to mankind."

COMPARE

Compare the values, prices and service we give you with those of any other tire dealer or distributor of special brands.

The low prices of rubber and cotton give Firestone unusual advantages due to their world-wide facilities in securing these raw materials and their efficient manufacturing. With Firestone's most economical distributing system, with over 600 branches, warehouses and service stores, we can secure a complete line of fresh Firestone tires, tubes, batteries, brake lining, rims and accessories within a few minutes' to a few hours' time and give our customers values and service that are not duplicated.

COMPARE VALUES

Firestone has this year added more rubber to the tread which gives 20% to 25% more safe mileage before the tread wears smooth.

The Firestone Double Cord Breaker gives you SIX and EIGHT plies under the tread—spreads road shocks—lessens punctures—gives over 50% stronger union between tread and tire body which ensures longer tire life and greater safety.

Live rubber penetrates every cord and coats every fiber by the patented Gum-Dipping process—thus not only every cord, but every fiber within the cords, is insulated: this gives you 25% to 40% added tire life.

Teams Working for Tournament

A basis is found through Pickaway-co's rural districts this week and only one reason can be found to explain it. The county basketball tournament begins Friday at C. A. C. gymnasium here and competition is expected to be so hot that to pick a winner at this stage of affairs would be folly of the first degree.

There is not a team in the county that is certain to win the highly-desired gonfalon which denotes supremacy in the greatest of games, according to county sports, basketball. There are only a few teams in the county which do not have a good chance to cop the title. These may be the teams to upset the dope and toss a title contender into the discard by a sudden flash of form.

Another team pushed itself into the spotlight last week by losing to New Holland's team by only two points, and that is no other team than Scioto-twp, winners of the boys' meet last year. Starting slowly with not a single regular back from the 1929-30 team, the Commercial Point lads played New Holland nearly to a standstill but lost the contest. Scioto's sudden leap into the eye of the fans makes five teams one of which should win the championship; besides Scioto they are Pickaway, New Holland, Saltcreek and Walnut. Anything though may happen, any of these teams might be bumped off in the first round, for is that not the way these county tournaments usually run?

In the girls' side of the annual fiasco fans are again picking Ashville, last year's champs, and Walnut, runners-up, to fight it out in the finals. Other teams may come through to defeat either of these, especially Scioto, but most fans are naming Ashville and Walnut to play the finals. Time will tell.

The tournament will start at 7 p. m. on Friday and on Saturday will get under way at 9 a. m. The teams come back for the next Thursday and play Friday and Saturday evening when the finals will be played.

FRENCH TENNIS ACE OPERATED ON

PARIS, Feb. 18.—Rene Lacoste, French tennis ace, was slowly improving today following an operation for appendicitis. The net champion has been ill for two years and forced to refrain from international competition during that time.

While physicians believed that Lacoste would be able to leave the hospital in a week, they were of the opinion Lacoste would be unable to play with the French Davis Cup team this year.

700 COME TO SEE SAVOLDI

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 18.—If "Jumping Joe" Savoldi, former Notre Dame football star, is to make an appearance here as a professional wrestler more than 700 persons will have to turn out, it was explained today.

Savoldi's bout with John Kanoche of Kansas City was called off last night when promoters counted those present and found only 700 customers. It was to have been Savoldi's second professional appearance.

COMPARE

Compare the values, prices and service we give you with those of any other tire dealer or distributor of special brands.

The low prices of rubber and cotton give Firestone unusual advantages due to their world-wide facilities in securing these raw materials and their efficient manufacturing. With Firestone's most economical distributing system, with over 600 branches, warehouses and service stores, we can secure a complete line of fresh Firestone tires, tubes, batteries, brake lining, rims and accessories within a few minutes' to a few hours' time and give our customers values and service that are not duplicated.

COMPARE VALUES

Firestone has this year added more rubber to the tread which gives 20% to 25% more safe mileage before the tread wears smooth.

The Firestone Double Cord Breaker gives you SIX and EIGHT plies under the tread—spreads road shocks—lessens punctures—gives over 50% stronger union between tread and tire body which ensures longer tire life and greater safety.

Live rubber penetrates every cord and coats every fiber by the patented Gum-Dipping process—thus not only every cord, but every fiber within the cords, is insulated: this gives you 25% to 40% added tire life.

BROOKHART RAPS OHIO WETS IN REFUSING SPEAKING OFFER

COLUMBUS, O.—If there is something more than a thirst--something sinister--behind attempts to repeal the eighteenth amendment, as United States Senator Smith W. Brookhart (R) of Iowa said in a letter received here yesterday, Ohio wets were unwilling to admit it today.

On receipt of an invitation to speak at a legislative committee meeting here when a referendum proposal is to be discussed Wednesday night, Senator Brookhart replied that wets have two reasons for advocating repeal:

"1. They want to attract the attention of the country away from the present economic conditions which the financial rule of our country has created.

"2. They want to tax intoxicating liquor, especially beer, to reduce their own taxes, which they must now pay the federal government."

Senator L. L. Marshall (R) of Cleveland, author of a joint resolution asking Congress to call a constitutional convention to consider amendments, was amazed at the answer.

"I'd like to have him at the meeting here, I'd like to argue against anyone willing to put up such an argument," Marshall said.

"Have you received acceptances from any other celebrities you invited," Marshall was asked.

"No, but if Brookhart comes, we don't need anyone else,' he replied. Brookhart won't come, however. He is opposed to the idea of holding a convention, other amendments are more important than prohibition, and the constitutional convention has never represented the voice of the people and never will anyway, he said in his letter.

"If conventions were called in the states, these sinister wet forces would resort to every device of corruption and bribery known to control these conventions, regardless of the will of the people," his letter said.

Approval of the amendment and referendum suggestion reached Marshall simultaneously from Joseph R. Nutt, Cleveland, national treasurer of the Republican party.

"Your plan takes the liquor question out of politics and gives all the people a chance to express themselves," he wrote.

Declining Marshall's invitation, Henry W. Anderson, who wrote an individual minority report in the Wickersham committee statement, answered that "We want our report after much study and that speakes for itself.'

POLICE SMASH NARCOTIC RING

Agents Co-operate in Canada and United States to Break Internationalists.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Investigation of what authorities say is an international organization of narcotic smugglers went ahead today with secret agents of the United States and Canada co-operating in the hunt for fresh information.

What action, if any, will be taken as a result of raids conducted at two exclusive northside hotels by federal men remained a question today. In the course of the raids two persons of international prominence were taken in custody for questioning.

Federal men first raided the suite of W. Perkins Bull, K. C. (King's Counselor) of London and Toronto, arresting Bull. He was held for questioning until an early hour Saturday morning. Bull, a rich landowner having estates in England, Canada and Cuba, is said to be an intimate friend of King George of England.

Next the raiders appeared at the apartment of Mrs. Maybelle Horlick Sidley, heiress to the fortune of William H. Horlick, Racine, Wis., manufacturer. She likewise was taken in custody and questioned along with Bull.

This is the third meeting in a series of cattle feeders school, which have been conducted through the co-operation of the Pickaway Livestock Co-operative Association, the Farm Bureau and the animal husbandry department of Ohio State University.

What is the cattle situation? What market reflects best prospective outlets? Will the market be better later on? What type of cattle sells best now? Will it be most profitable to finish my cattle or sell them now? These and other similar questions will comprise the discussion at this school.

L. H. Barnes of the rural economics department and L. P. McCann, beef cattle specialist of Ohio State University, will assist County Agent Lewis, with this school.

FILM FUMES BURN TWENTY

CINCINNATI, O.—A scene recalling the disastrous Cleveland clinic tragedy of May 15, 1929 when 125 persons fell victims to fumes from burning films was enacted here today when fire followed an explosion in the plant of the Pick Pen Company.

More than a dozen persons were overcome by poisonous fumes from blazing celluloid. They were rushed to hospitals. Most of the victims were firemen.

That no deaths resulted were due to the fact that the life-saving squad used respirators on many stricken persons enroute to hospitals. None of the victims was said to be in a serious condition

Nine members of the salvage corps, including Captain Edward Aders was taken to the Good Samaritan Hospital. Two firemen and six girls employed by the pen company was rushed to City Hospital.

Witnesses said that several of the victims of the fumes walked several blocks from the scene of the fire before collapsing. Those for whom respirators were not available were revived with aromic spirits of ammonia.

GUERRA FAILS IN COALITION

Reports to Spanish King That Efforts To Form Cabinet Are Fruitless.

MADRID, Feb. 18.—Due to last minute difficulties Jose Sanchez Guerra was forced to report to King Alfonso today that he had failed in his efforts to form a coalition cabinet to succeed that of Premier D' Amaso Berenguer.

Guerra advised the king that he should call upon Melquiades Alverez to head a new government. Alverez is the chief of the constitutional reform party and considered the most liberal member of the constituent bloc.

Alverez had informed Guerra yesterday that he and other constitutionalists would support Guerra in every way but that he believed the inclusion of Republicans and Socialists in the cabinet was absolutely essential.

FARM ACCOUNT SCHOOL IS HERE

On Friday, Feb. 20 at 10 a. m. a farm accounting school will be held at the Farm Bureau Home here. The farm account record keepers will be assisted in the summarization of the records which they have kept during the past year. The simplified farm account serves the enterprising farmer as a speedometer through which he may gauge his particular speed in the various enterprises of his farm operations.

An analysis of this record will show whether beef cattle, hogs, dairy cows, chickens or his efficiency in crop production are returning him a profit.

Any one who is interested in starting a farm account for 1931, will also be welcome to attend this meeting. Why not open a farm account for 1931, it will prove an invaluable guide to you.

ONE KNOWN LOST IN ZUMA FLOODS

YUMA, Ariz., As far as it is known only one person, Mrs. Edward Llewellyn, perished in the flood last week which inundated Wellton, Ariz., and adjacent territory when a cloudburst swept down from the mountains.

Authorities declared that the death toll might be larger, as many hikers and motorists were known to have been caught in the flood.

Rain continued to fall in southern Arizona yesterday. As a result traffic was tied up and telephone service demoralized.

How may we get rid of the fault-finding spirit?

STATE SENATE PROBING ETHICS PRACTICED BY OHIO ATTORNEYS

COLUMBUS, O.—Octopus-like, the state senate investigation of questionable ethics of attorneys practicing before the state industrial commission spread to Toledo, Akron, Steubenville, Dayton, Martins Ferry, Glouster, Marysville and other Ohio cities today.

Holding its first meeting, the senate committee investigating the situation, received charges that a Columbus firm of attorneys had attempted to re-open old claims, solicited claim cases when injured persons had no thought of applying for compensation and tried to "buy" medical testimony.

Charges that a group of attorneys approached him and offered a percentage of the compensation if he would be willing to supply the medical proof necessary were made by Dr. W. R. Allison of Belmontco, in a letter submitted to the investigating committee by George J. Barrett of Steubenville.

Letters advising Ross Hedges, industrial relations department official, of the attempts of the same attorney to revive old claims in an effort to get more compensation were also read to the committee. The letters were received, it was stated, from Barrett, Fred Morris of Martins Ferry; Harry P. Wood of Toledo, and other heads of branch offices.

One letter pointed out that in the death of Dominic Spanish at Marysville, Mrs. Spanish had no idea of trying to get compensation.

The same group of attorneys attemped to reach an agreement with J. E. McGonagle, 761 Wall -st, Akron, it was asserted.

At Glouster, the committee was informed, the attorneys demanded 30 per cent of what had already been received and 50 per cent of anything addisional received for reviving old claims, it was alleged.

A Cleveland woman was asked $9.75 for the reopening of a case, and when she replied that she did not have the money, attorneys agreed to take $4.75, which was all she could get, another letter showed.

The practice to which the committee is objecting is probably not illegal but is as unethical as ambulance chasing, Hedges declared at the opening of the hearing.

CHURCH BOARD SCORES SMOKING

WASHINGTON—The Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals voiced "distress and resentment" today over the "increased consumption of cigarettes by young girls" and proposed "a change in the prohibition laws to require the doctoring of fruit juices to prevent fermentation.' '

The board, headed by Dr. Clarence True Wilson, said "smoking is a matter of racial health and flamboyant advertising tells the mothers of tomorrow that cigarettes will keep them slender."

Concerning the grape concentrate, the board stated: "Grape growers of California will eventually come upon diaster if they expect the American people will be content to see them in the enjoyment of a monopoly founded upon a violation to the United States constitution."

Two Important Pamphlets FREE

To all Industrial Employers

"Outline of Industrial Policies and Practices in time of Reduced Operation and Employment."

Based on a study of steps taken by hundreds of companies to meet the present unemployment emergency. This pamphlet is designed to make a knowledge of these measures available to all employers of labor.

"A Survey of Unemployment Relief in Industry."

This pamphlet contains a survey of emergency employment measures founded on information gathered from a diversified list of large and small corporations in more than 500 localities and which employed in 1929 more than three quarters of a million men.

THE suggestions in these pamphlets do not originate with this Committee. The Committee has simply collected and classified the practices now in operation in various parts of the country, both in respect to manufacturing policies and unemployment relief.

These pamphlets have already been widely distributed, but the Committee desires to have them in the hands of every industrial employer of labor.

For, while the suggestions contained in the outline do not purport to include extensive discussion of all plans for stimulating industrial employment or reducing the effects of lay-offs, it is believed that many who have had difficulty in securing information on what is considered sound procedure, will find these plans of value.

Copies of these pamphlets may be secured free of charge by addressing:

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?
By Edson R. Waite
Shawnee, Oklahoma

That to advertise continuously is good business foresight.

Advertising is a necessity. No business can become a great success without its aid.

The whole world knows that well advertised products are of such quality that commend their favorable consideration.

Business concerns that are not continuous advertisers are overlooking the one big power that is so necessary to increase sales.

There is no sales opportunity that compares with advertising through the printed page.

Business concerns who think they can get sufficient business without inviting it are just "kidding" themselves. If they don't look out they will dream on until they are out of business.

Look cold facts in the face. Business is never so good that it can't be made better.

A Bad Precedent

THE editor of a California newspaper amazed the world with the frank confession in behalf of "the majority of the people of California" that the reason Mooney and Billings are in prison is "because the majority of the people of California want them there," and that it is "beside the point whether they are guilty of any particular crime."

That may or may not be true, but it corroborates the charge that Sacco and Zanzetti were executed not because they were guilty of any particular crime but because a majority of the people of their community demanded their lives.

It is fit and proper that the "land of liberty" protect itself against its enemies, against all enemies of society, but America has never stood for "railroading" men merely because it did not want them running at large. One of the nation's proudest boasts has been that here the right of trial by jury is inalienable—a few lynchings expected—and that in America alone is the citizen secure against unjust imprisonment.

The constitutions of the United States and of the 48 states have set up a complicated system to protect the citizens against unlawful arrest and imprisonment but here is an editor proclaiming to the world that his state has deprived two citizens of that protection.

Guilty men must be punished, but, lest innocent men suffer unjustly, the guilty should not be made to pay the penalty for crimes they did not commit. If the courts convict the lawless of crimes which they are guiltless are the lawful safe in those courts?

Antique Statutes

IT was Dickens who said "The law's an ass," but it takes a state legislature to prove it, and every legislature now in session will prove it on one or more occasions before adjournment in the spring.

This is accomplished in two ways, by the passage of silly laws and by leaving on the statute books laws that should have been repealed decades ago. These faults every legislature falls into, although in varying degree.

Movements for the repeal of obsolete, nullified or foolish laws of long standing seldom originate within legislative halls. That now gathering momentum in New York is no exception to this rule. Lawmakers are often law-breakers but they are as loath to undo the work of their predecessors as if it were something sacrosacect.

Why should it be necessary to bring pressure to bear upon a legislative body to effect the repeal in such a progressive state as New York of such outmoded laws as those prohibiting the purchase of land from Indians, horse racing within a mile of a courthouse, parachute jumps from balloons, the inciting of another to suicide, and making modern plumbing an accessory to a crime?

While it is easier to forget than to repeal old laws, to leave them gather dust from one generation to another encourages disrespect for law and justifies in the minds of many their disobedience to laws they should respect and obey.

Discovering the fire, Mrs. Rightner rushed to the home of a neighbor to call the fire department. When she returned she found the night lock on the door had caught.

After trying to gain entrance through the rear door, the woman kicked in a window and rescued the children. Both legs were badly cut and she lost a large amount of blood before physicians arrived. The home was saved by firemen.

THE PROTECTIVE SCARECROW

"FOREST LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

After giving up Mat Tully because he is poor, Nancy Hollenbeck encourages the attentions of Jack Beamer, wealthy sportsman. Jack plans to divorce his wife and marry Nancy. On a mountain trip, Nancy falls in love with Roger Decatur, handsome ranger. She leaves her chaperones, the wealthy Porters, and secretly marries Roger. Nancy is happy with Roger in his rough mountain cabin, but when he leaves on a trip, the loneliness is unbearable and she returns home. She continues to keep her marriage a secret.

CHAPTER XXV.

"I'm sorry, Nan—I wasn't listening. What was it—"

"You weren't LISTENING?"

"No, I—I was thinking... Positively, Helen Heffinger is a pathological liar. Mounted Police! She never knew one by name. And as for Mat Tully having anything to do with her! I don't believe it!"

"Who cares?" Nancy murmured. She was too absorbed in her own thoughts to notice her sister's hectic flush and dark, snapping eyes.

Minutes passed.

Louise shook herself angrily and began to rearrange the living room chairs. "Oh, May Belle's gossip reminds me. Jack Beamer sent those roses that were here when you came back."

"He . . . he did! . . . was there any word?"

"Mama took the card."

"Mama took the card? Mama took my letter! MAMA!" Nancy was in the kitchen in two leaps. "Mama, Lou says you have the card Mr. Beamer sent with the roses. I'd like to know why you took my letter—"

Interference

"Only a card," mama said indistinctly, her mouth full of peas she was shelling for dinner.

"But I won't have you reading my mail, interfering in my affairs!"

"Nancy! Mama won't have it. I meant to tell you I didn't like Mr. Beamer's sending flowers. It doesn't look well. Those things are so easily misinterpreted. A gentleman of Mr. Beamer's social experience should know how easily people—"

A scornful, pitying smile twisted Nancy's lovely mouth. "If that's all you have to worry about—ROSES!" she said, "don't bother me about it. I have troubles of my own!"

"Oh, mummy, mummy, you mustn't mind me!" she cried, enveloping her in one of the old bear-hug embraces. "I'm just your bad girl, blowing up about nothing . . . and I'm so nervous . ."

Half mollified Mrs. Hollenbeck straightened her mussed hair and settled her high net collar. "Mama understands," she said with dignity, "but you must not be so secretive. Can't you tell mama your little secrets just as you always have?"

Quite unexpectedly Nancy burst into tears.

"There, there," Mrs. Hollenbeck soothed. "Mama's girl!"

* * *

Nancy slipped back so easily into the old life. The Fall season was starting early. Every day the postman brought thick white envelopes, some big and square, others so little that they slipped through his fingers and he picked them up grumbling.

Teas. Dances. Bridge parties. They were invited to all of the big affairs, but few of the small, exclusive functions.

"I see where the Arnolds are having a dinner dance for some of the officers off that Dutch ship . . . six of the beautiful young girls in Piedmont society," mama read from the morning paper. "Really, I can't see why you girls——" But even as she read she knew it would have been a tragedy if they had been invited. It would have meant new clothes, and where would they come from? Things had never been so bad in all the lean years of her marriage.

Once Nancy would have worried. She used to suffer agonies wondering if she would be invited here or there. It was torture to have to listen to May Belle Craig or Helen Heffinger tell about something from which she had been left out. But it didn't matter much now. Nothing mattered. She couldn't even get interested in papa's failing health, and the threat of his mother coming to live with them.

Louise didn't care any more either. Her brief interest in society had flared and died, since the never saw Mat Tully any more. Helen Heffinger was always talking about him . . did she really see him? Louise wondered. Helen was always imagining something. Well, let her . . . Lou prided herself on seeing things as they really were. Men didn't like her . . . very well, she wouldn't force herself.

Resignation

She drifted into a little clique of girls older than herself. Intelligent, plain looking girls who had no men friends. They went to concerts in the evenings, and met in the afternoons to discuss L'Art Moderne and the new poetry.

"I think, dear, that you should include gentlemen in the evening parties," mama had suggested.

And Louise had laughed and said harshly, "Humph! A wonderful chance. Do you think if we had men to take us out we'd be going to concerts TOGETHER?"

That frightened mama. Frightened her terribly. Lou talking like an old maid . . . and Nancy . . . even Nancy was getting too hard to please. Spencer Fuller, Fred Galan, even Frank Haworth, Gil Neal's cousin, Nancy treated them all alike. Flirted and seemed to be having a gorgeous time while she was with them, and declared her head ached and they'd bored her to tears as soon as they had turned their backs.

"Girls can't be TOO critical these days," mama said reprovingly, feeling that Nancy was going a bit too far.

Nancy had burst out laughing then and stuttered, "That a good one!" and broke down and wept.

Poor Nellie Hollenbeck. Poor mother hen who hatched two ducks.

* * *

On a night in September when the red harvest moon gilded the black river, and ten thousand stars twinkled in a cloudless sky, May Belle Craig announced her engagement to Gilbert Neal, Jr.

The Hollenbeck girls had been formally invited to the small dinner that preceded the much talked of Venetian Carnival that was to mark the end of the season at the Craig's Russian River place.

"Of course, they're not quite in society," Mrs. Craig mourned, going over the list with May Belle, "but you girls have been together so much, and poor Kitty is my oldest friend. . . . I suppose we'll have to have them!" With Gilbert Neal almost in the family now, and the important Neals coming to dinner, Cora Craig felt she couldn't be too careful.

Lou and Nancy knew that the engagement was going to be announced as soon as they saw that the best lace tablecloth and silver from the Pacific Avenue house had been moved to Craigfield for the occasion. And after the others had seen little old Mr. Neal, red faced and bored, take his place at Mrs. Craig's right, and big Mrs. Neal, blowsy and careless and covered with dirty, old-fashioned jewelry, at Mr. Craig's right, they knew it, too.

May Belle, a little awed by the great Neals, was unnaturally quiet until after the first cocktail. Then she grinned, tossed her head, and settled down to enjoy herself.

The Announcement

Mr. Craig, perspiring freely, stood up at a signal from his wife. Lifting his glass, and silently cursing that he, whose after dinner speeches were really a feature of the Lyons' Club Banquets, should be so nervous, he stammered:

"I propose that we drink to the health of May Belle and the young man she has decided to add permanently to our family, Gilbert Neal."

WAGE-CUTTING IS SUBJECT OF CONTRACTORS' DELEGATES

WASHINGTON, D. C.—With a view to overcoming alleged weaknesses in the pending Davis-Bacon prevailing wage rate bill so that legislation to effectually combat wage cutting in the construction industry, may be enacted at the present session of Congress, officials of the Associated General Contractors of America yesterday conferred with representatives of several government departments and Secetary of Labor Doak of the latter's office relative to amendments proposed by A. P. Greenfelder, president of the Association, in a letter to President Hoover, today.

Officials of the association who conferred with the department representatives and also with members of Congress impressed upon them that the purposes of the amendments are to so clarify the bills and remove their uncertainties that they will insure to labor what other proponents of the bills believe labor should receive.

Under present terms of the proposed legislation, they pointed out, contractors would be forced to bid on government construction without definite knowledge as to what their labor costs would be and that the entire federal building program would be thrown into the field of speculative operations resulting either in excessive costs to the taxpayers to the unwarranted profit of the contractor, or else in inequitable losses and possible bankruptcy to the latter.

The Associated General Contractors' representatives, H. E. Foreman and Harry J. Kirk, urged the administration to give its support to amendments which would require the department's contracting officer to determine the prevailing wage rates in each instance before advertising for bids and to include them in the specifications.

Numerous members of Congress they stated, have signified approval of the association's amendments, but are reluctant to change the bill without the consent of the administration, which was responsible for the framing of it in its present form. Among these congressional leaders are Representative Bacon, of New York, who introduced the bill in the House; Representative Welch, of California, chairman of the House Labor Committee; Representative Elliott W. Sproul, of Illinois, a member of the Rules Committee; Representative Henry T. Ramspeck, of Georgia, a member of the House Labor Committee; and Representative Clarence F. Lea, of California.

"I believe the legislation referred to requires clarification to prevent injustices to contractors," Representative Lea declared in a letter to President Greensfelder. "I hope the matter may be ironed out."

Theatres

AT THE CLIFTONA

Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery, who have scored repeated successes in separate vehicles, are now to be seen in their first co-starring picture, "Min and Bill," which will open a 3-day engagement, starting Thursday, at Cliftona theater.

The picture is based on Lorna Moon's powerful novel of the waterfront, "Dark Star." Information is that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, in seeking a story suitable for the combined talents of its two popular players, selected the late Miss Moon's novel for its wide opportunities in both the field of comedy and serious work.

That the two players are as equally at home in the one field as in the other was evidenced in the startlingly contrasting roles played by Miss Dressler in "Anna Christie" and the subsequent "Caught Short," and by Beery in "The Big House" and "Way of a Sailor."

AT THE GRAND

That the film version of R. C. Sherriff's world-famous war play, "Journey's End," will be a mighty influence in the direction of world peace, was the opinion expressed by Allister MacDonald, son of England's Prime Minister, when he visited the Hollywood studio of Tiffany Productions, Inc.

Because of the vast circulation of the picture and the theme of the play upon which it is based, "Journey's End" should, in MacDonald's opinion, influence the masses of the world to realize that war is a crime against civilization. The picture will circulate probably to a scope at least five hundred or a thousand times as wide as the stage production's reach—and yet the stage play has had thirty companies playing throughout the world.

"Journey's End", a Tiffany-Gainsborough all-talking production recorded by RCA Photophone, is the attraction Sunday at the Grand theater. Its cast includes Colin Clive, David Manners, Billy Bevan, Ian Maclaren, Anthony Bushnell and many others.

Run-Down Condition Invites "Cold" Germs

—Avoid the "Cougher and Sneezer"

Persons with Lowered Health Should Keep Away From Crowds, Advises Authority, for the Spraying of Germs Is Main Cause of the Common Cold

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

WE all sneeze and we all cough. Yet how many of us cover our mouths when we do this? Neglect of this little precaution is the main cause for most of the colds and Winter ailments so common in this country.

Do you know that among every 1,000 men employed, there are more than a hundred cases of disability every year? This illness, whatever it is, lasts anywhere from one to eight days. More than half of this number are disabled because of diseases in the breathing organs. Among them are included colds, bronchitis, grippe, influenza and pneumonia.

Diseases of this type are spread by the spraying of the secretions of the nose and throat in coughing, sneezing, spitting and talking. People who are tired and are in run-down condition, when exposed to such dangers, quickly contract the infection. In their turn, they spread it to others.

Any person who has a cold and is in any way lowered in health should keep away from crowds. Children who have colds should be kept home and not be permitted to attend classes. By insisting on this rule, not only will they get well quicker, but they will not be a source of danger to other children.

Sneezing or coughing in such a way as to spread infection should be avoided. Always attempt to catch a sneeze in a handkerchief. If you have a cold do not talk into people's faces. By no means go close to a child if you have a cold.

The common habit of embracing and kissing children has led to many infections that could have been prevented. This applies to so serious a disease as tuberculosis, too.

In spite of the numerous signs issued by local health bureaus, spitting is still a common vice in this country, and it is most dangerous to health.

We are too much concerned with the cure of these ailments rather than with their cause and possible prevention. We recall the well-known adage, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." Yet in this matter very few of us apply that wise rule.

Proper regard to the dangers from sneezing, coughing, spitting and talking will do much to better the public health. The diseases I have mentioned today are preventable. They cannot be prevented until the public will observe the simple rules of hygiene.

Answers to Health Queries

MRS. D. W. Q.—Will you tell me why my legs appear to swell during the daytime while at night they go down? What treatment would be helpful in this case?

A.—This condition may be caused by a possible heart or kidney disturbance, although it is also possible that it is due to overexertion, such as long standing, walking, etc. Have an examination so that definite advice and treatment can be outlined.

* * *

MRS. B. F. R. Q.—I have a rash on my arms, shoulders and back which is slightly itchy, occurring in light pink patches. When I become tanned in the Summer, these patches remain light and are very noticeable. What would you advise?

A.—This may be due to a form of eczema, although it would be difficult to make a definite diagnosis without seeing the existing condition. Why not see a skin specialist for examination and advice?

* * *

A. D. Q.—What can I do for a pain in the area of the right lung? This has persisted for four years and seems relieved when I am careful of my diet and elimination. I have been examined but the doctor pays little attention to the pain, saying it is probably due to gas. Is this likely? I am afraid of lung trouble and am extremely nervous and high-pitched. Also troubled with constipation.

A.—The pain is very likely due to gases—judging from the description of your symptoms. Eat more laxative food, take plenty of exercise in the open and keep your bowels open. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question. An X-ray examination will definitely rule out the possibility of a lung condition.

* * *

H. N. Q.—How can I gain weight? 2.—Do you think cod liver oil will help one to gain?

A.—Eat plenty of good nourishing food, including milk, eggs, fresh fruits and vegetables, cereals and plenty of water between meals. Sleep as many hours as possible. Avoid worry and overfatigue.

A Bad Precedent

THE editor of a California newspaper amazed the world with the frank confession in behalf of "the majority of the people of California" that the reason Mooney and Billings are in prison is "because the majority of the people of California want them there," and that it is "beside the point whether they are guilty of any particular crime."

That may or may not be true, but it corroborates the charge that Sacco and Zanzetti were executed not because they were guilty of any particular crime but because a majority of the people of their community demanded their lives.

It is fit and proper that the "land of liberty" protect itself against its enemies, against all enemies of society, but America has never stood for "railroading" men merely because it did not want them running at large. One of the nation's proudest boasts has been that here the right of trial by jury is inalienable—a few lynchings expected—and that in America alone is the citizen secure against unjust imprisonment.

The constitutions of the United States and of the 48 states have set up a complicated system to protect the citizens against unlawful arrest and imprisonment but here is an editor proclaiming to the world that his state has deprived two citizens of that protection.

Guilty men must be punished, but, lest innocent men suffer unjustly, the guilty should not be made to pay the penalty for crimes they did not commit. If the courts convict the lawless of crimes which they are guiltless are the lawful safe in those courts?

Antique Statutes

IT was Dickens who said "The law's an ass," but it takes a state legislature to prove it, and every legislature now in session will prove it on one or more occasions before adjournment in the spring.

This is accomplished in two ways, by the passage of silly laws and by leaving on the statute books laws that should have been repealed decades ago. These faults every legislature falls into, although in varying degree.

Movements for the repeal of obsolete, nullified or foolish laws of long standing seldom originate within legislative halls. That now gathering momentum in New York is no exception to this rule. Lawmakers are often law-breakers but they are as loath to undo the work of their predecessors as if it were something sacrosacect.

Why should it be necessary to bring pressure to bear upon a legislative body to effect the repeal in such a progressive state as New York of such outmoded laws as those prohibiting the purchase of land from Indians, horse racing within a mile of a courthouse, parachute jumps from balloons, the inciting of another to suicide, and making modern plumbing an accessory to a crime?

While it is easier to forget than to repeal old laws, to leave them gather dust from one generation to another encourages disrespect for law and justifies in the minds of many their disobedience to laws they should respect and obey.

IS BADLY HURT SAVED CHILDREN,

SANDUSKY, O.— Crashing in a window pane so that she could rescue her two sleeping children, Mrs. Adam Rightner, sustained severe cuts when a fire broke out in her home.

Discovering the fire, Mrs. Rightner rushed to the home of a neighbor to call the fire department. When she returned she found the night lock on the door had caught.

After trying to gain entrance through the rear door, the woman kicked in a window and rescued the children. Both legs were badly cut and she lost a large amount of blood before physicians arrived. The home was saved by firemen.

How be merciful and at the same time compatible with justice?

THE PROTECTIVE SCARECROW

"FOREST LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

After giving up Mat Tully because he is poor, Nancy Hollenbeck encourages the attentions of Jack Beamer, wealthy sportsman. Jack plans to divorce his wife and marry Nancy. On a mountain trip, Nancy falls in love with Roger Decatur, handsome ranger. She leaves her chaperones, the wealthy Porters, and secretly marries Roger. Nancy is happy with Roger in his rough mountain cabin, but when he leaves on a trip, the loneliness is unbearable and she returns home. She continues to keep her marriage a secret.

CHAPTER XXV.

"I'm sorry, Nan—I wasn't listening. What was it—"

"You weren't LISTENING?"

"No, I—I was thinking... Positively, Helen Heffinger is a pathological liar. Mounted Police! She never knew one by name. And as for Mat Tully having anything to do with her! I don't believe it!"

"Who cares?" Nancy murmured. She was too absorbed in her own thoughts to notice her sister's hectic flush and dark, snapping eyes.

Minutes passed.

Louise shook herself angrily and began to rearrange the living room chairs. "Oh, May Belle's gossip reminds me. Jack Beamer sent those roses that were here when you came back."

"He . . . he did! . . . was there any word?"

"Mama took the card."

"Mama took the card? Mama took my letter! MAMA!" Nancy was in the kitchen in two leaps. "Mama, Lou says you have the card Mr. Beamer sent with the roses. I'd like to know why you took my letter—"

Interference

"Only a card," mama said indistinctly, her mouth full of peas she was shelling for dinner.

"But I won't have you reading my mail, interfering in my affairs!"

"Nancy! Mama won't have it. I meant to tell you I didn't like Mr. Beamer's sending flowers. It doesn't look well. Those things are so easily misinterpreted. A gentleman of Mr. Beamer's social experience should know how easily people—"

A scornful, pitying smile twisted Nancy's lovely mouth. "If that's all you have to worry about—ROSES!" she said, "don't bother me about it. I have troubles of my own!"

"Oh, mummy, mummy, you mustn't mind me!" she cried, enveloping her in one of the old bear-hug embraces. "I'm just your bad girl, blowing up about nothing . . . and I'm so nervous—"

Half mollified Mrs. Hollenbeck straightened her mussed hair and settled her high net collar. "Mama understands," she said with dignity, "but you must not be so secretive. Can't you tell mama your little secrets just as you always have?"

Quite unexpectedly Nancy burst into tears.

"There, there," Mrs. Hollenbeck soothed. "Mama's girl!"

Nancy slipped back so easily into the old life. The Fall season was starting early. Every day the postman brought thick white envelopes, some big and square, others so little that they slipped through his fingers and he picked them up grumbling.

Teas. Dances. Bridge parties. They were invited to all of the affairs, but few of the small, exclusive functions.

"I see where the Arnolds are having a dinner dance for some of the officers off that Dutch ship . . . six of the beautiful young girls in Piedmont society," mama read from the morning paper. "Really, I can't see why you girls——" But even as she read she knew it would have been a tragedy if they had been invited. It would have meant new clothes, and where would they come from? Things had never been so bad in all the lean years of her marriage.

Once Nancy would have worried. She used to suffer agonies wondering if she would be invited here or there. It was torture to have to listen to May Belle Craig or Helen Heffinger tell about something from which she had been left out. But it didn't matter much now. Nothing mattered. She couldn't even get interested in papa's failing health, and the threat of his mother coming to live with them.

Louise didn't care any more either. Her brief interest in society had flared and died, since the never saw Mat Tully any more. Helen Heffinger was always talking about him . . . did she really see him? Louise wondered. Helen was always imagining something. Well, let her . . . Lou prided herself on seeing things as they really were. Men didn't like her . . . very well, she wouldn't force herself.

Resignation

She drifted into a little clique of girls older than herself, intelligent, plain looking girls who had no men friends. They went to concerts in the evenings and bridge in the afternoons to study Debussy, Moderne and the new poetry.

"I think, dear, that you should include gentlemen in the evening parties," mama had suggested.

And Louise had laughed rather harshly, "Humph! A wonderful chance. Do you think if we had men to take us out we'd be going to concerts TOGETHER?"

That frightened mama. It frightened her terribly. Lou was getting like an old maid . . . Nancy . . . even Nancy was getting hard to please. Sp . . . Fred Galan, even Frank Hancock, Gil Neal's cousin, Nancy treated them all alike. Flirted a little to be having a gorgeous time while she was with them, and yet she had her head ached and tossed and tossed her to tears as soon as they had turned their backs.

"Girls can't be TOO critical these days," mama said reprovingly, feeling that Nancy was going a bit too far.

Nancy had burst out laughing then and stuttered, "That a good one!" and broke down and wept.

Poor Nellie Hollenbeck. Poor mother hen who hatched two ducks.

* * *

On a night in September when the red harvest moon gilded the black river, and ten thousand stars twinkled in a cloudless sky, May Belle Craig announced her engagement to Gilbert Neal, Jr.

The Hollenbeck girls had been formally invited to the small dinner that preceded the much talked of Venetian Carnival that was to mark the end of the season at the Craig's Russian River place.

"Of course, they're not quite in society," Mrs. Craig mourned, going over the list with May Belle. "but you girls have been together so much, and poor Kitty is my oldest friend. . . . I suppose we'll have to have them!" With Gilbert Neal almost in the family now, and the important Neals coming to dinner, Cora Craig felt she couldn't be too careful.

Lou and Nancy knew that the engagement was going to be announced as soon as they saw that the best lace tablecloth and silver from the Pacific Avenue house had been moved to Craigfield for the occasion. And after the others had seen little old Mr. Neal, red faced and bored, take his place at Mrs. Craig's right, and big Mrs. Neal, blowsy and careless and covered with dirty, old-fashioned jewelry, at Mr. Craig's right, they knew it, too.

May Belle, a little awed by the great Neals, was unnaturally quiet until after the first cocktail. Then she grinned, tossed her head, and settled down to enjoy herself.

The Announcement

Mr. Craig, perspiring freely, stood up at a signal from his wife. Lifting his glass, and silently cursing that he, whose after dinner speeches were really a feature of the Lyons' Club Banquets, should be so nervous, he stammered:

"I propose that we drink to the health of May Belle and the young man she has decided to add permanently to our family, Gilbert Neal."

WAGE-CUTTING IS SUBJECT OF CONTRACTORS' DELEGATES

WASHINGTON, D. C.—With a view to overcoming alleged weaknesses in the pending Davis-Bacon prevailing wage rate bill so that legislation to effectually combat wage cutting in the construction industry, may be enacted at the present session of Congress, officials of the Associated General Contractors of America yesterday conferred with representatives of several government departments and Secetary of Labor Doak of the latter's office relative to amendments proposed by A. P. Greenfelder, president of the Association, in a letter to President Hoover, today.

Officials of the association who conferred with the department representatives and also with members of Congress impressed upon them that the purposes of the amendments are to so clarify the bills and remove their uncertainties that they will insure to labor what other proponents of the bills believe labor should receive.

Under present terms of the proposed legislation, they pointed out, contractors would be forced to bid on government construction without definite knowledge as to what their labor costs would be and that the entire federal building program would be thrown into the field of speculative operations resulting either in excessive costs to the taxpayers to the unwarranted profit of the contractor, or else in inequitable losses and possible bankruptcy to the latter.

The Associated General Contractors' representatives, H. E. Foreman and Harry J. Kirk, urged the administration to give its support to amendments which would require the department's contracting officer to determine the prevailing wage rates in each instance before advertising for bids and to include them in the specifications.

Numerous members of Congress they stated, have signified approval of the association's amendments, but are reluctant to change the bill without the consent of the administration, which was responsible for the framing of it in its present form. Among these congressional leaders are Representative Bacon, of New York, who introduced the bill in the House; Representative Welch, of California, chairman of the House Labor Committee; Representative Elliott W. Sproul, of Illinois, a member of the Rules Committee; Representative Henry T Ramspeck, of Georgia, a member of the House Labor Committee; and Representative Clarence F. Lea, of California.

"I believe the legislation referred to requires clarification to prevent injustices to contractors," Representative Lea declared in a letter to President Greenfelder. "I hope the matter may be ironed out."

Theatres

AT THE CLIFTONA

Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery, who have scored repeated successes in separate vehicles, are now to be seen in their first co-starring picture, "Min and Bill," which will open a 3-day engagement, starting Thursday, at Cliftona theater.

The picture is based on Lorna Moon's powerful novel of the waterfront, "Dark Star." Information is that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, in seeking a story suitable for the combined talents of its two popular players, selected the late Miss Moon's novel for its wide opportunities in both the field of comedy and serious work.

That the two players are as equally at home in the one field as in the other was evidenced in the startlingly contrasting roles played by Miss Dressler in "Anna Christie" and the subsequent "Caught Short," and by Beery in "The Big House" and "Way of a Sailor."

AT THE GRAND

That the film version of R. C. Sherriff's world-famous war play, "Journey's End," will be a mighty influence in the direction of world peace, was the opinion expressed by Allister MacDonald, son of England's Prime Minister, when he visited the Hollywood studio of Tiffany Productions, Inc.

Because of the vast circulation of the picture and the theme of the play upon which it is based, "Journey's End" should, in MacDonald's opinion, influence the masses of the world to realize that war is a crime against civilization. The picture will circulate probably to a scope at least five hundred or a thousand times as wide as the stage production's reach—and yet the stage play has had thirty companies playing throughout the world.

"Journey's End", a Tiffany-Gainsborough all-talking production recorded by RCA Photophone, is the attraction Sunday at the Grand theater. Its cast includes Colin Clive, David Manners, Billy Bevan, Ian Maclaren, Anthony Bushnell and many others.

Run-Down Condition Invites "Cold" Germs

—Avoid the "Cougher and Sneezer"

Persons with Lowered Health Should Keep Away From Crowds, Advises Authority, for the Spraying of Germs Is Main Cause of the Common Cold

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

WE all sneeze and we all cough. Yet how many of us cover our mouths when we do this? Neglect of this little precaution is the main cause for most of the colds and Winter ailments so common in this country.

Do you know that among every 1,000 men employed, there are more than a hundred cases of disability every year? This illness, whatever it is, lasts anywhere from one to eight days. More than half of this number are disabled because of diseases in the breathing organs. Among them are included colds, bronchitis, grippe, influenza and pneumonia.

Diseases of this type are spread by the spraying of the secretions of the nose and throat in coughing, sneezing, spitting and talking. People who are tired and are in run-down condition, when exposed to such dangers, quickly contract the infection. In their turn, they spread it to others.

Any person who has a cold and is in any way lowered in health should keep away from crowds. Children who have colds should be kept home and not be permitted to attend classes. By insisting on this rule, not only will they get well quicker, but they will not be a source of danger to other children.

Sneezing or coughing in such a way as to spread infection should be avoided. Always attempt to catch a sneeze in a handkerchief. If you have a cold do not talk into people's faces. By no means go close to a child if you have a cold.

The common habit of embracing and kissing children has led to many infections that could have been prevented. This applies to so serious a disease as tuberculosis, too.

In spite of the numerous signs issued by local health bureaus, spitting is still a common vice in this country, and it is most dangerous to health.

We are too much concerned with the cure of these ailments rather than with their cause and possible prevention. We recall the well-known adage, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." Yet in this matter very few of us apply that wise rule.

Proper regard to the dangers from sneezing, coughing, spitting and talking will do much to better the public health. The diseases I have mentioned today are preventable. They cannot be prevented until the public will observe the simple rules of hygiene.

Answers to Health Queries

MRS. D. W. Q.—Will you tell me why my legs appear to swell during the daytime while at night they go down? What treatment would be helpful in this case?

A.—This condition may be caused by a possible heart or kidney disturbance, although it is also possible that it is due to overexertion, such as long standing, walking, etc. Have an examination so that definite advice and treatment can be outlined

* * *

MRS. B. F. R. Q.—I have a rash on my arms, shoulders and back which is slightly itchy, occurring in light pink patches. When I become tanned in the Summer, these patches remain light and are very noticeable. What would you advise?

A.—This may be due to a form of eczema, although it would be difficult to make a definite diagnosis without seeing the existing condition. Why not see a skin specialist for examination and advice?

* * *

A. D. Q.—What can I do for a pain in the area of the right lung? This has persisted for four years and seems relieved when I am careful of my diet and elimination. I have been examined but the doctor pays little attention to the pain, saying it is probably due to gas. Is this likely? I am afraid of lung trouble and am extremely nervous and high-pitched. Also troubled with constipation

A.—The pain is very likely due to gases—judging from the description of your symptoms. Eat more laxative food, take plenty of exercise in the open and keep your bowels open. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question. An X-ray examination will definitely rule out the possibility of a lung condition.

* * *

H. N. Q.—How can I gain weight? 2.—Do you think cod liver oil will help one to gain?

A.—Eat plenty of good nourishing food, including milk, eggs, fresh fruits and vegetables, cereals and plenty of water between meals. Sleep as many hours as possible. Avoid worry and overfatigue.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By Edson R. Waite
Shawnee, Oklahoma

That to advertise continuously is good business foresight.

Advertising is a necessity. No business can become a great success without its aid.

The whole world knows that well advertised products are of such quality that commend their favorable consideration.

Business concerns that are not continuous advertisers are overlooking the one big power that is so necessary to increase sales.

There is no sales opportunity that compares with advertising through the printed page.

Business concerns who think they can get sufficient business without inviting it are just "kidding" themselves. If they don't look out they will dream on until they are out of business.

Look cold facts in the face. Business is never so good that it can't be made better.

BUSINESS MEN WHO CONTINUALLY ADVERTISE QUALITY GOODS GET THE BIG END OF THE BUSINESS

The February meeting of the Pickaway Plains Chapter of the D. A. R. was held at the home of Mrs. H. M. Crites of S. Court st Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 where Mrs. Crites, Mrs. Harley Colwell, Mrs. Nannie Hamilton, Mrs Glen Nickerson, Miss Charlotte Caldwell, Miss Marie Hamilton and Miss Edith Haswell, as hostesses, dispensed hospitality with a Washington tea.

A miniature George Washington welcomed the guests at the door, and the national colors were in evidence throughout the rooms in the decorations—the same patriotic colors being used at the beautifully appointed tea table.

"The Marriage of George and Martha Washington", a paper of unusual interest was read by Mrs E. F. Anderson, prepared by extensive research, bringing together facts and incidents in their lives, that are unfamiliar to the casual reader.

During the afternoon, Mrs Harry Heffner sang two group of songs "A Spring Fancy" by Dunsmore; "When I Love You" by Martin Cole; "The Singer" by Elga Maxwell and "Song of the Open" by LaForge. She was accompanied at the piano by Miss Abbe Mills Clarke.

C. B. Galbreath, Secretary of the Ohio State Archaelogical Society gave an interesting talk on "Washington's Trip to Ohio" and illustrated his course and camp sites by map. This trip was made by boat down the Ohio river seven years before the Revolutionary War, for the purpose of investigating the beautiful Ohio Valley.

HIGHER RATE

pany offered to extend the present rate for the next year. The following three years, then, would be at the rate proposed for 1931 and 1932. In other words, 1931's rate would be the same as 1930's with 1932, 1933 and 1934 being the rate proposed for 1931 and 1932 Then for 1935 that rate proposed for 1933, 1934 and 1935 would be in effect. To this offer, the Ashville council again said 'no.' As a final step, the gas company, according to Mr. Fridley, stated its willingness to eliminate the proposed rate for 1935 and its willingness to operate through 1934 on the announced new schedule. This, too, was refused by the Ashville council.

MEETING FAILS

Failing to reach any kind of an agreement in Ashville the gas officials stated that they would be present at the next council meeting in a effort to draw up an agreement.

City council meets here tonight and whether the gas company will be present with an ordinance is not known. Besides Ashville and Circleville, the Ohio Fuel Gas Co serves Amanda and Adelphi in this community.

ANOTHER GERRYMANDER PLAN SUBMITTED TO OHIO SENATE

COLUMBUS, O, Feb 18.—Censure of the Marshall plan of congressional redistricting by one senator was followed with the introduction of a new scheme by another in the 89th general assembly.

After Senator John A. Lloyd (R) of Portsmouth branded the Marshall plan as "wholly ridiculous," Senator William H. Herner (D) of Monroeville drew up a gerrymandering measure which he believes will provide a remedy.

Charges that the Marshall bill was drawn up by a paid lobbyist interested only in giving Cuyhoba county two more congressmen are contained in the Lloyd statemut.

Herner's proposed seventh district, of Champaign, Clark, Fayette Greene, Logan, Madison and Delaware counties, would have an unquestionably Republican population of 263,496, strengthening existing political conditions.

Herner's own district would be the tenth, of Erie, Huron, Sandusky, Seneca, Wood, Ottawa and the eastern tip of Lucas counties, with a population of 238,034.

Hamilton-co would be divided into two districts, as in the Marshall plan. The third district as proposed by Marshall also would be retained, comprising Butler, Warren, Clermont, Clinton, Brown, Highland and Adams counties.

Other district set-ups under the Herner plan include:

Fifth-Allen, Auglaize, Darke, Mercer, Miami, Shelby and Preble, population 259,238.

Eighth—Crawford, Hardin, Marion, Wyandot, Richland, Knox, and Ashland, population 264,032.

Ninth—City of Toledo.

Eleventh—Athens, Gallia, Jackson, Lawrence, Meigs, Vinton, Scioto, and Hocking, population 272,687

Twelfth—Fairfield, Licking, Perry, Pickaway, Ross, Pike and Franklin, except Columbus, population 287,743

Thirteenth—City of Columbus.

Fourteenth—Guernsey, Monroe, Morgan, Belmont, Noble, Washington and Muskingum, population 292,291.

Fifteenth—Harrison, Jefferson, Carroll, Columbiana, and Tuscarawas, population 259,031.

Sixteenth—Coshocton, Holmes, Medina, Wayne, Lorain and that part of Summit south of state route 17, population 231,609.

Seventeenth—Remainder of Summit-co.

Eighteenth—Stark and Portage, population 263,663.

MILLIONS of MOTHERS

WHEN CHILDREN CRY

CHILDREN often cry for no apparent reason. Many times we can't guess what is wrong. The crying may mean a touch of colic; the little bowels may be sluggish—or some other upset. It may mean any of the common little ailments that children suffer. To bring quick comfort to your little one, give a few drops of Castoria. Most upsets of children are soon soothed away by this pleasant-tasting remedy that children all love.

In five million modern homes, Castoria is a mother's first thought when a child is out of sorts, feverish, cross, doesn't eat right or sleep right. When bad breath, coated tongue, or languor tells of constipation. These five million wise mothers know that children should never be given stronger medicines meant for the fully developed systems of grown-ups. Castoria is gentle—safe, yet always thorough and effective for a child of any age. It may be given to the tiniest infant for any little upset. When buying, look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on wrapper.

Where Hills Eat Oil!

Sterling is more economical and Safer

The Thousand Mile Oil.

When you are driving in a country where the land is all "on edge", it's not always safe to trust your engine to a short-mileage oil.

Short-mileage oil means short wear oil. And if there is any place on earth where it is necessary to have oil that will stand the "gaff", it's the miles-in-low, you use in the hill country.

Sterling is the long distance oil—1000 miles in safety without change.

Long-mileage oil means long wear oil.

Sterling is safer on the hills and on the long run and doesn't cost a penny more.

Get the Sterling habit and put back into your pocket half the money you usually spend for oil.

HIGHER RATE

pany offered to extend the present rate for the next year. The following three years, then, would be at the rate proposed for 1931 and 1932. In other words, 1931's rate would be the same as 1930's with 1932, 1933 and 1934 being the rate proposed for 1931 and 1932. Then for 1935 that rate proposed for 1933, 1934 and 1935 would be in effect. To this offer, the Ashville council again said 'no.' As a final step, the gas company, according to Mr. Fridley, stated its willingness to eliminate the proposed rate for 1935 and its willingness to operate through 1934 on the announced new schedule. This, too, was refused by the Ashville council.

MEETING FAILS

Failing to reach any kind of an agreement in Ashville the gas officials stated that they would be present at the next council meeting in a effort to draw up an agreement.

City council meets here tonight and whether the gas company will be present with an ordinance is not known. Besides Ashville and Circleville, the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. serves Amanda and Adelphi in this community.

HOUSE BILLS

000,000 for welfare institution improvements was asked in a bill by Representative Louis Nippert (R) of Cincinnati.

Representative Olney R. Gillogly (D) of Muskingum-co proposed a one per cent tax on incomes one-half per cent on sales and one-third per cent of the rate on real estate for intangibles.

OLEO BROUGHT UP

A one percent sales and products tax was proposed by Representative Carl D. Sheppard (R) of Akron. A $5 tax on each retail drug store, a 10 cents a pound tax on yellow oleo-margarine, a tax on all tools and machinery of Ohio manufacturers and an adjusted excise tax on railroads equal to tax on other utilities were among other revenue measures suggested.

Another solution offered was a plan by Representative Fred Myers (R) of Toledo to boost the gasoline tax from four to five cents.

Other bills submitted concern scores of other problems outside the realm of taxation.

Senator Gillen's bills provide severe penalties for public officers who violate the trust placed in them by voters.

GILLEN'S BILLS

Any school official or teacher would forfeit his position for engaging in political activity or becoming a candidate, in one of his proposals. Ten-year prison terms were asked for persons who destroy or alter public or court ecrds, and for anyone who becomes interested in the profits of a contract while an officer of a political subdivision, in two other bills.

Most of the legislature's time today was to be taken up with the referring of the new bills to committees for study.

ANOTHER GERRYMANDER PLAN SUBMITTED TO OHIO SENATE

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 18.—Censure of the Marshall plan of congressional redistricting by one senator was followed with the introduction of a new scheme by another in the 89th general assembly.

After Senator John A. Lloyd (R) of Portsmouth branded the Marshall plan as "wholly ridiculous," Senator William H. Herner (D) of Monroeville drew up a gerrymandering measure which he believes will provide a remedy.

Charges that the Marshall bill was drawn up by a paid lobbyist interested only in giving Cuyhoba county two more congressmen are contained in the Lloyd statemut.

Herner's proposed seventh district, of Champaign, Clark, Fayette Greene, Logan, Madison and Delaware counties, would have an unquestionably Republican population of 263,496, strengthening existing political conditions.

Herner's own district would be the tenth, of Erie, Huron, Sandusky, Seneca, Wood, Ottawa and the eastern tip of Lucas counties, with a population of 238,034.

Hamilton-co would be divided into two districts, as in the Marshall plan. The third district as proposed by Marshall also would be retained, comprising Butler, Warren, Clermont, Clinton, Brown, Highland and Adams counties.

Other district set-ups under the Herner plan include:

Fifth-Allen, Auglaize, Darke, Mercer, Miami, Shelby and Preble, population 259,238.

Eighth—Crawford, Hardin, Marion, Wyandot, Richland, Knox, and Ashland, population 264,032.

Ninth—City of Toledo.

Eleventh—Athens, Gallia, Jackson, Lawrence, Meigs, Vinton, Scioto, and Hocking, population 272,687.

Twelfth—Fairfield, Licking, Perry, Pickaway, Ross, Pike and Franklin, except Columbus, population 287,743.

Thirteenth—City of Columbus.

Fourteenth—Guernsey, Monroe, Morgan, Belmont, Noble, Washington and Muskingum, population 292,291.

Fifteenth—Harrison, Jefferson, Carroll, Columbiana, and Tuscarawas, population 259,031.

Sixteenth—Coshocton, Holmes, Medina, Wayne, Lorain and that part of Summit south of state route 17, population 231,609.

Seventeenth—Remainder of Summit-co.

Eighteenth—Stark and Portage, population 263,663.

MILLIONS of MOTHERS

WHEN CHILDREN CRY

CHILDREN often cry for no apparent reason. Many times we can't guess what is wrong. The crying may mean a touch of colic; the little bowels may be sluggish—or some other upset. It may mean any of the common little ailments that children suffer. To bring quick comfort to your little one, give a few drops of Castoria. Most upsets of children are soon soothed away by this pleasant-tasting remedy that children all love.

In five million modern homes, Castoria is a mother's first thought when a child is out of sorts, feverish, cross, doesn't eat right or sleep right. When bad breath, coated tongue, or languor tells of constipation. These five million wise mothers know that children should never be given stronger medicines meant for the fully developed systems of grown-ups. Castoria is gentle—safe, yet always thorough and effective for a child of any age. It may be given to the tiniest infant for any little upset. When buying, look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on wrapper.
